

A Chance to Rewrite Your Life

If you could go back in time and change a past action in your life, when would it be and what would you change? Why did that action matter so much that you wanted to change it? What would the change be? By changing it, how might your life be affected?